Bronx River Greenway Bike Tour

For decades, communities along the Bronx River have worked in concert with city agencies to restore New York City's only freshwater river by developing the Bronx River Greenway: a system of parks and trails that creates an ecological buffer to protect the river and provide waterfront access. This tour takes you through the newest section of the Bronx River Greenway connecting Starlight Park, Concrete Plant Park and Garrison Park, passing through one of New York City's only public food forests and crossing the river several times over a series of new bridges.

About Bronx River Alliance

The Bronx River Alliance works to protect, improve, and restore the Bronx River corridor. The Alliance works in close partnership with New York City government agencies as well as dozens of community-based partners, regional nonprofits, and businesses.
