New York City Housing Authority Launches New Website

The New York City Housing Authority (NYCHA) today launched a new and improved website – www.nyc.gov/nycha -- that offers a wide variety of audiences an easy-to-use one-stop resource to low-income housing information.

What you will find surfing on www.nyc.gov/nycha

Want to know all the facts about NYCHA, North America's biggest public housing authority? Take a look at the About NYCHA section where you'll find a message from the Chairman, our fact sheet, our mission statement, financial information and a review of 70 years of public housing.

Want to find out about living in public housing? Then the Applying for Public Housing section is the place to look.

Section 8 voucher holders, landlords and those interested in the program can go directly to the Section 8 Assistance area.

Interested in contract opportunities at NYCHA? Take a look at the Doing Business With NYCHA area.

Resident's Corner is a place people already living in our buildings can go to get information aimed specifically with them in mind.

NYCHA offers information to our residents and the people in their neighborhoods in the Community Programs & Services section.

There's lots more available: NYCHA documents, press releases and publications including our latest booklet, A Home to be Proud of, aimed at making life at NYCHA a bit more understood for our residents, as well as upcoming events, can all be found in the News, Events and Publications section.

All this and much, much more will be made available to our residents, our staff, and anyone having in interest in what makes NYCHA work and how to work with us.
